

A Heartbeat Away

5:30 the sky is gray
That old clock keeps ticking away
I miss you so much it hurts inside

Raindrops on the windowpane
Things will never be the same
Cause without you here these tears will never dry

(chorus)

When I was lost for words you always knew just what to say
You gave me courage every time that I would feel afraid
If there was danger up ahead you'd always be the one to pray
You were just a heartbeat away

You'd always see things through
You know I depended on you
What am I supposed to do without you here

I lay in bed awake all night
Waiting for the sun to rise
But since you've gone it seems it's disappeared

(repeat chorus)

You could see right through the games that I would try to play
You would forgive me if I ever hurt you in some way
But since I've lost you my life is getting harder every day
You were just a heartbeat away

*Written by Frankie Moreno / B.T. Brunelle
©2007 Luccivanni Publishing – BMI
Completed in Las Vegas, Nevada*