

Retrofuturism

Every day and every minute
People pushin' new things
To the surface they wanna show
They're tryin' to take the world by storm
They call it cool and current
Like it's somethin' nobody knows

They need introspection and deep self-reflection
They don't give credit to who did it first
They're never mentioned
Got to awaken this ego-driven Nation
Who hide behind sub-basses
Sampled minds, no innovation

(chorus)

Uninventive minds chasin' fame computerized
I've heard it all before
Yeah, I've heard it all before
There is no brand new
It's all been built before you baby
I've heard it all before
Yeah it's all been done
It's retrofuturism (It's all retrofuturism, it's all retrofuturism)

They take their pictures
With their pretty little filters
For attention but they all look the same
They're so convinced that they're original
But just a clone
Not thinkin' 'bout from where it all came

Wearin' faces of those who have made it
Just stale carbon-copies
Who see no need acknowledging
The real thing that came before their blurred perspective
A weak interpretation
Of all the roads left paved for them

(repeat chorus)

*Written by Frankie Moreno / Gianna Adams / Lacey Schwimmer
©2020 Luccivanni Publishing – BMI
Completed in Las Vegas, NV*