

Snow

Sit inside my window sill,
It all feels calm, it all feels still
I'll wait, I'll wait
The noise of rain is all so clear
But the sound of snow is hard to hear
So I'll wait, I'll wait
For flurries in the sky, that lead to a world of white
Shivers come with winter wind
As the season starts to usher in
Can't wait

Time is slow and the cold fades
As I watch snowflakes taking shape
Can't look away
Like feathers from our angels wings
Each flurry trickles and it gleams
Can't look away
A crystalline blanket conceals imperfections
The landscape vanishes away
With blankness all left in its place
How great

(chorus)
Winter snow, winter snow

A dream world with a winter breeze
It drapes over all of the trees
I hope it stays
It all feels so brand new to me
All I could ever want to see
I hope it stays
Paints all that's in sight
In silky velvet white
Soon it will all melt away
And all its pretty whites will fade
Don't go

(chorus)
Winter snow, winter snow, winter snow

*Written by Frankie Moreno / Gianna Adams
©2021 Luccivanni Publishing – BMI
Completed in Las Vegas, NV*